

Janet Taylor

Janet Taylor has strong views on what should be done with the DNA samples obtained by the police.

Janet says, "DNA has the potential to tell us so much and in the future, DNA technology will have advanced significantly. The information that could be gained through DNA could greatly help our society, not only in improving crime detection, but through improving healthcare, education, our workforce, etc." "We'd be foolish not to research this potential wealth of information".