

Owen Davies

Six months ago, Owen Davies was arrested for urinating in a street in Cardiff. When Owen was taken to the police station, the police took a DNA sample from him.

Owen is annoyed that the police did this. He says, "OK, I did something wrong, but it's not a major crime, is it? Plus my DNA isn't even relevant to the crime, so why did the police take it and store it on their database?!"