Rhys & Gareth Jones

Last year, a brick was thrown through the lounge window of a home. The house owner was hit on the head by the brick and suffered serious head injuries from which he later died.

The police obtained the suspect's DNA from the brick and searched for a profile match on the National DNA Database. When the police couldn't find a match, they did a familial search.

A partial match was found to Rhys Jones. After further investigation, the DNA on the brick was found to be from Rhys Jones' brother, Gareth.

Gareth Jones was questioned by the police and was later charged with manslaughter.
